

MAYOR OKS SIGNING BONUS FOR NEW POLICE RECRUITS

Measure should help Seattle meet its goal of hiring 154 new officers

SEATTLE - Mayor Greg Nickels today signed legislation authorizing a $5,000 signing bonus to help recruit new police officers. Under his Neighborhood Policing Staffing Plan, Nickels has committed to adding 154 additional patrol officers by 2012. Sixty-nine of those have been added so far and this signing bonus should help ensure Seattle meets its recruiting goals.

"I'm committed to getting those additional officers hired, trained and on the street as soon as possible," Nickels said. "This signing bonus will be an important new tool for us to attract talented police candidates to serve the people of Seattle. I thank the City Council for adopting this proposal."

Within the highly competitive law enforcement profession, police departments across the country, Seattle included, are working harder than ever to attract new officers.

Entry-level recruits will receive $1,000 after 120 hours of service, and the remaining $4,000 upon completion of 600 hours of service and graduation from the Police Academy.

In March 2007, Nickels released the Neighborhood Policing Staffing Plan, which will put more officers on the streets at times they are needed the most, improve response times and allow officers more time for proactive police work.

The plan expands the City's patrol force, providing a faster, stronger and smarter approach to protecting Seattle's neighborhoods:

- * faster response time regardless of the time of day, day of the week, or season of the year;
- * stronger police presence when responding; and
- * smarter use of patrol resources to focus on persistent problems that can affect quality of life in the city.

About Roger Turner

Buying or selling a home is one of the most important decisions you will make. You deserve the best representation possible. Roger Turner is an experienced, well educated real estate agent with natural people skills and a proven track record. He is one of the most successful and respected realtors in the area. Born and raised in Seattle, Roger knows all of the city neighborhoods extremely well. He began his career in real estate shortly after graduating from the University of Washington with a degree in Business Administration. He is also a CPA. After over 20 years as a realtor Roger enjoys working with people and has a real interest in homes - how they are built, the different styles, the way they are decorated.

Roger has also earned awards and certificates for top production. Roger credits the Windermere organization as a big part of his success and longevity in the business. "They have a large network of offices through out the area." This is very helpful in getting exposure for a home that is for sale. They also demand the highest level of integrity. It's a great place to work."

Roger is famous for "going the extra mile" in order to help his clients. He currently lives in north Seattle with his wife and two children. "Seattle's always been my home. I grew up in South Seattle near Lake Washington where I often visited Seward Park. Growing up there was a wonderful experience and this area of Seattle has become one of the prime areas for affordable housing. Later I moved to North Seattle to attend the University of Washington where I received my BA in Business Administration with a concentration in marketing and in accounting. After graduation, I found North Seattle to be a well established and pleasant neighborhood.

It was here in North Seattle, in the Maple Leaf community that my wife and I chose to begin our family. We now have a beautiful son, Benjamin Roger, and a wonderful daughter, Marie Katherine. Since the arrival of these two gems, we've been extremely involved in children's activities; members of the Children's Museum, frequent attendees of the Seattle Science Center and the Woodland Park Zoo."

AGREEMENT PAVES WAY FOR VIADUCT SOLUTION

SEATTLE - Gov. Chris Gregoire, King County Executive Ron Sims and Seattle Mayor Greg Nickels today announced a major step forward in replacing the Alaskan Way Viaduct along Seattle's central waterfront.

The three-government agreement announced today lays the foundation for choosing an option for the viaduct's central portion by the end of next year and builds on the work under way on the south and north portion of the State Route 99 corridor.

The agreement directs the three transportation departments -- the Washington State Department of Transportation, King County and Seattle Department of Transportation -- to consider the entire system of streets, transit service, and freeways from Lake Washington to Elliott Bay, and from Northeast 85th Street to South Spokane Street in evaluating solutions that keep people, goods and services moving.

"The Alaskan Way Viaduct needs to be taken down on Seattle's central waterfront for safety's sake," Gregoire said. "The question we need to answer is how we move people and goods to keep this region thriving in the long run when we no longer have the viaduct."

This work builds on the agreement made last March to replace about half of the viaduct in the north and south ends by 2012. The first project to strengthen several columns between Columbia Street and Yesler Way in downtown Seattle began in October. The second project relocates electrical utilities under the viaduct in 2008 so the south section from King Street to South Spokane Street can be replaced.

"We have an opportunity to build a transportation solution that works today and for decades to come," Nickels said. "We can find a way forward that keeps people and goods moving efficiently through our city while protecting our environment and creating a waterfront that everyone can enjoy."

An advisory committee of local community and business representatives has been appointed to provide feedback on potential solutions and provide input to help officials develop a final recommendation. Gregoire, Sims and Nickels will also appoint an independent project manager to help identify and evaluate solutions.

"Citizen input will be crucial to help us find a solution that reflects the region's community values, including environmental stewardship," Sims said. "We will all benefit from a deliberate, independent, and transparent process." All replacement solutions will be evaluated on how they would address:

- * Ensuring public safety;
- * Moving people and goods;
- * Ensuring fiscal responsibility;
- * Increasing use of Seattle's waterfront; and
- * Protecting the environment.

Solutions under consideration may include transit investments, capital investments that increase reliability for freight and vehicles, and incentives for drivers to use alternate modes of transportation.

The guiding principles and names of advisory committee members can be found at www.wsdot.wa.gov/projects/viaduct.

STG PRESENTS
BROADWAY BOUND
SINGIN' IN THE RAIN
THE MOORE THEATRE
JANUARY 11 - 20, 2008

Broadway Bound Children's Theatre creates a transforming experience for children ages 5-18 through participation in a dynamic theatre arts program that combines a fun and supportive atmosphere with professional standards. Serving children of all experience levels and from all backgrounds, Broadway Bound challenges children to develop their mental, physical, emotional, social and creative potentials through the joy and discipline of live theatre. This year, the magic makers of Broadway Bound Children's Theatre are bringing the world renowned musical production of Singin' in the Rain to The Moore Theatre. Based on the 1952 musical film starring Gene Kelly, this production, directed by Jim Nixon, is filled with high energy, music and dancing. The inspiring and captivating storyline is sure to keep you singin' in the rain! Family friendly for ages five and up. TEATRO ZINZANNI
HEARTS ON FIRE
JANUARY

Thelma Houston, our favorite diva returns to Seattle as Madame Zinzanni this November. Joined by her sister Chef Penelope Wilde (the comedienne Christine Deaver) and the Latino heartthrob El Vez, Thelma and friends bring down the house as the tent moves to its new location in the theatre district on Mercer Street near Seattle Center. "Hearts on Fire" is one part dance party, one part Kit Kat Club on acid. Editors note - These tickets sell fast. it is not uncommon for these shows to sell out months in advance. See the website for details: <http://dreams.zinzanni.org/>
